- SPECIAL ISSUE

Special Issue on Philosophy and Economics

Editor: Guido Baggio (Roma Tre University)

The 2022 issue of Syzetesis will host a symposium on the theme of Philosophy and Economics, exploring the many ways in which philosophical reflection has contributed to economic theorization. In particular, the symposium is interested in gathering contributions exploring the different perspectives, both theoretical and historical on the strict connatural relationship between philosophy and economics, as, for example, in heterodox economics, social ontology, or in the relationship between language and economics, or ideology and economics.

For further information, scholars can write to guido.baggio@uniroma3.it.

We invite authors to submit their research article concerning the relation between Philosophy and Economics by January 31, 2022.
